Heroic Work of a Girl in Saving Her Brother from Drunkenness.

Put a Remedy in His Coffee and Without His Knowledge of the Secret was Comple ely Curad

The terrible evil of drankenness has at less found a conquerer. This Mary Roberts of 1612 Golden Gale Avenue, San Francisco, Cal., tells how the saved her brother from rain, and her words burn with a new hope to every waman who would recur a son, brother, or linehand from the scourge of drankenness. She says.

"Yes, it is true that my brother is now a reformed man. For years he drank only occasionally, but at least he not so that that to be sober seemed a living death to him. After a sprea he would tremble and shake and act as if he were going imans. He would then drink sparingly, but in a low days would shart off again, and I wouldn't see him for a week. our home paper that there was a remety called Golden Specific, to be given se retly in tea, coffee, or soft food, and that they would send me a free trial. I wrote for it and gave it to my brother early one morning in a cup of coffee before he had a chance to go out and got a drink. The effect was wonderful and seemed to brace him up. He went out and came back quite solver for him. In the mean time I had sent for a regular treatment of Golden Specific, and after using it my brother was a changed man. They after day I watched and prayed, and it all secured to good to be true. His whole manner changed. I said nothing about the remedy I had been giving him secretly and did not talk of his giving him secretly and did not talk of his being cared, but I would often tell him how keppy I was and what a noble man he was to stop drinking. In answer to this question the druggist said. "Just step back here with me and I'll show you a collection of pledges that a pawnbroker would consider himself inch yo o obtain on the same terms." Going back to the safe, he opened it and pulled out a small drawer. Several rings and her scarffing, a small charelaine watch, a fraternty badge, and a silver-mounted revolver made up the collection. As the drawer was being shoved back, a small round box, about two immes in length and an inch in diameter, rolled to the front of it. This attracted the observer's attration and its answer to a request for permission to examine it the druggist handed it to him. I was made of hears and when the cover was removed with some difficulty there were bits of a heavy, black gunthy substance clinging to the edges of the hox. The peculiar odor given out from the box was unmissingly that of opium.
